

KAJJ'S WISH

Kaji, 4
Wilms tumor
I wish to be a
'cop officer'

There he is, out in the parking lot looking for another car to break into ... Kaji considers every angle – what's the best way to catch this suspicious character in the act? He prepares Disco, his canine partner.

Kaji offers the suspect one chance – surrender, or face Disco. The suspect flees. But Disco is just too fast. Moments later, Kaji makes his second arrest of the day and cuffs the suspect. Kaji becomes a "cop officer."

It's been a busy first day on patrol with the West Fargo Police Department. Though Kaji's day started like any other, everything changed when a police officer knocked on his door. Soon, Kaji had his own West Fargo PD uniform, swore to uphold the law, received his badge and hit the beat.

This is the day Kaji does more than wish to be a "cop officer." It's the day he gets to be like his heroes who keep the city safe. He's now Officer Kaji. People no longer see him as a boy fighting for his life and recovering from surgeries.

And that's just as important as car chases, helicopter patrols and daily donut breaks.
